Local high school bands hold annual band camp

With the strike of a drumstick, they have the beat. The marchers, with sun in their eyes and sweat on their brow, move forward together as a unit.

Marching band members at Campbellsville and Taylor County high schools have been practicing music and fundamentals at band camp this week.

Stephen Bishop and Zach Shelton, directors of bands at TCHS and CHS respectively, say they are taking precautions to make sure marchers stay cool and healthy, even in the 90-degree heat.

Bishop said his students are given plenty of water breaks. They are required to bring a water jug to keep with them at all times during camp.

During the hot afternoons, Bishop said, outdoor rehearsal is either dismissed and the band returns at night when the weather cools, or students practice indoors.

Shelton said his band also gets plenty of water breaks and practices indoors when the heat is at its hottest.

If the heat index rises to 104, the Kentucky High School Athletic Association strongly recommends that students practice indoors. Bishop and Shelton say they abide by that rule.

The CHS and TCHS bands will officially perform for the first time this marching season at the Mark Twain Exhibition in Adair County on Saturday, Aug. 25.

TCHS will again host a marching band competition this year, on Saturday, Sept. 22. Campbellsville will compete and the TCHS band will perform in exhibition.

Shelton said this year's CHS show is entitled "The Road Less Traveled" and is based on Robert Frost's poem by the same name.

The show will feature pop songs such as "Dream On" by Aerosmith and tunes by the Beatles and from the movie "The Wizard of Oz."

"It's gonna be an interesting conglomeration," Shelton said.

Bland is second runner-up in Miss Kentucky pageant

Two local women compete in bid to represent state at Miss America pageant

Though they didn't take home the crown, the two Campbellsville natives who competed in this year's Miss Kentucky pageant say they enjoyed participating in it and learned a lot about themselves.

Jefra Bland and Allie Shae Hash competed on Saturday for the crown. Bland was named second runner-up and received a preliminary talent award. Jessica Casebolt, Miss Goldenrod, was named Miss Kentucky.

And though Hash didn't take home any awards, she says she enjoyed her experience at the pageant.

Bland, 22, represented Bowling Green as Miss Bowling Green. This was her third time competing in the pageant.

Her platform was "A Dose of Prevention - Stopping Prescription Drug Abuse Before it Starts." She performed a piano piece for her talent.

Hash, 21, represented Elizabethtown as Miss Elizabethtown Area. Her platform was "Get

Johnson to retire from city fire chief position

Applications will be accepted from around the state, mayor says a new chief could be named by Labor Day

CALEN MCKINNEY

After nearly four decades, Allen "A.J." Johnson will hang up his turnout gear. Well, at least for a while.

And even though he is leaving his chief post, a Johnson will continue to fight fires and provide rescue support for Campbellsville residents.

The Campbellsville Fire & Rescue chief has decided to retire, according to a news release from Campbellsville Mayor Tony Young's office.

Johnson said his son, Alex, has been offered a career position at Campbellsville Fire & Rescue. In order for Alex to accept the position, Johnson said he must retire as chief.

"It made it kind of an easy decision," he said. "I'm tickled to death that my son is going to go into fire fighting. I will continue to worry about him."

Summer school program helps students get ahead

Program no longer just for students who struggle

STAFF REPORT
news@cknj.com

To many, summer school is a place where students with poor grades make up for it with extra work. Taylor County High School is attempting to change that view with its summer school program that allows students to progress through school ahead of schedule.

Jennifer Fitzpatrick, 21st Century grant director and host of the program, says that students are given tests to determine their skill level and advance accordingly from there.

"A student cannot bypass Algebra 1 and take Algebra 2 without still achieving the class credits," she said. "However, the student can take the Algebra 1 test and achieve the credit without taking the class. On the other hand, a remedial math student may take those courses over the summer to improve their skill level and prepare them for the next step."

Fitzpatrick said the program offers college courses through many different forms, including online courses, es, dual credit programs through the high school and classes at Campbellsville University at a cost of $65 per credit hour, much cheaper than $500 per credit hour through the university. The main goal of the program is to help prepare students for college life.

"It really helps college-bound kids get ready for a specific route for college," she said. "We have kids graduating that already have 12 hours [a full semester] in college credits."

Scott Necessary, director of dual credit at CU, said the program is meant to help students get a quick

Johnson: Retires as city fire chief

Alex currently works at Campbellsville/Taylor County EMS and is a volunteer firefighter. He completed a bachelor's degree in fire science at Eastern Kentucky University.

"You know that makes you proud," Johnson said. Johnson said he worries about those who go into firefighting, however, because of the risk that comes with the job.

"My people are running into buildings when the rats are running out of the building even," Johnson said. "It is statistically one of the most dangerous occupations that anyone can go into."

Johnson began his career in 1974 as a volunteer firefighter at Campbellsville Fire Department. He worked his way up in rank, being named sergeant, lieutenant and captain. Former mayor, the late Bobby Miller, appointed Johnson acting chief to replace Jimmy Cox when he retired. Johnson served as chief for 18 years.

"And it's been fun ever since," he said in his office on Tuesday, surrounded by awards and firefighter memorabilia.

"I have had a good career," he said. "[And] it's not over."

Young said Johnson has provided excellent leadership at the department and played a significant role in many grants, one to help purchase a ladder truck, which have enhanced the department.

"He has enjoyed a long and productive career that he can be proud of, and his many contributions as chief of the Campbellsville Fire Department are so appreciated."

In all, Johnson has secured $2.5 million in funding for the department.

"That's not just me," he said, giving credit to the career and volunteer firefighters at the department and the office staff.

"I enjoy managing the money," Johnson said. "I enjoy getting things for the department."

Young said Johnson was instrumental in making the merger of Campbellsville Fire Department and Campbellsville/Taylor County Rescue last year a success.

"I have enjoyed working with him and the city is grateful for his dedication for which he will be truly missed."

The release states that Johnson will continue as chief until a replacement is named, and he will help the new chief with the transition process.

On Tuesday, Young said he plans to compile an advertisement stating the education, background, qualifications, training and credentials required for the position. He said the advertisement will be posted locally as well as around the state.

Young said he intends on accepting applications through July and perhaps interview candidates in the first week or so in August. If everything goes well, he said, a new chief could be named by Labor Day.

Campbellsville Fire & Rescue Chief Allen "A.J." Johnson, at left, has announced that he will retire after nearly four decades as a firefighter. Here, Johnson checks some equipment with Tony Grider, firefighter/paramedic.

Though Young will make a recommendation, Campbellsville City Council members must approve the hiring of a new chief. "He's done a wonderful job," Young said. "He cares about this community. He put his heart and soul into it and will continue to."

Johnson won't be putting up his turnout gear forever. He will continue on as a volunteer with the Taylor County Volunteer Fire Department.

"He can still be a valued asset to us," he said. "[I'll be] glad to get his input for many years to come."

Johnson said he decided to volunteer at the fire department on a whim while in high school.

"It just sounded like fun," he said.

Johnson said the job can be very physically demanding, but even more emotionally.

"The stress of working in emergency services is more than anyone can imagine," he said. "Somebody is about to lose their life or all of their life savings."

"[Firefighters] see the tragedies so much and so up close that it sometimes takes its toll on them," he said.

And even though the job comes with a high amount of stress, he said, firefighters go wherever they are needed. And they don't ask who is in need, Johnson said, because that just doesn't matter.

"Somebody is in need and we go to help," he said. "They just go and do."

Johnson said he drove a fire truck to a scene for the first time at age 19. He says he was excited, but also nervous. A man had his hand trapped in a corn picker, Johnson said, and there was no one at the station to drive a truck loaded with the equipment personnel needed. Volunteer Fire Chief George Wilson told him to get going.

"Kinda been hooked ever since," he said.

The man's hand was freed, Johnson said, and he regained function.

One of his earliest experiences fighting a fire, Johnson said, happened when he was jogging down the street to a fire. A firefighter stopped him and asked if he knew how to pump a truck. Johnson said he told the firefighter he didn't. After a very quick training, Johnson was pumping water to the fire.

He said that is something he hopes to do again when he volunteers. He said his days of going into a burning building are probably over.

"The job has been very rewarding. Where else can you come to work never knowing what you're gonna do and enjoy your job most of the time?"

After Johnson's last day on the job, which will be determined when a new chief is found, he can't volunteer for 90 days. But then, he said, he will become one of the many volunteers who give their time to helping those in need.

"It's in my blood," he said. "It's one of those things that once you do it, you either love it or it's not for you, you hate it, and you get out of it about as quick as you got into it."

For those 90 days, he said, he will miss the personnel he has spent nearly 40 years working with.

"And it's been a family," he said. "This is a close knit family."

Johnson said he isn't sure yet what he will do in retirement. He said he might travel, spend time fishing or do some work at his home. He and his wife, Angie, also have a daughter, Andrea Jo Hudson. Johnson says he will continue his car air conditioning service operation that he began in 1980 and has remained successful since. Angie will complete nurse practitioner school next month. He says she has something planned for them to do to celebrate that and his retirement in September, but is keeping it a surprise.

"I won't sit down," he said. "I've never done it for 18 years."

Johnson is quick to say what he won't miss in retirement.

"Getting up at 2 in the morning and going to ... a false alarm," he said. "I won't miss that a bit."

"I'll take it easy for a while," he said. "God has truly blessed me in all of my endeavors. I'm just waiting to see what he has in store for me next."

Underwood sentenced in sex solicitation case

Gets two years' probation, ordered to treatment

reporter@cknj.com

A Campbellsville man has been sentenced to probation and treatment after pleading guilty to soliciting a minor for sex via Facebook.

Charles L. Underwood, 22, of 105 Ray St., was indicted in August 2011 by a Taylor County grand jury and charged with an illegal sex act with a minor younger than 16 and using an electronic system to induce a minor or peace officer to engage in sexual or other prohibited activities.

Underwood appeared before Taylor Circuit Court Judge Allan Bertram on May 22 and was sentenced to two years' probation after pleading guilty to an amended charge of sexual misconduct.

Records from Underwood's appearance weren't filed at the Taylor Circuit Court's Office until June 29.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Shelly

Miller, the prosecutor in the case, said the illegal sex act charge was dismissed in exchange for Underwood's guilty plea to the amended charge.

Miller said Underwood was also ordered to serve six months in jail and complete a sexual offender treatment program after his release.

He was given credit for 63 days he has already served.

She said Underwood will not have to register as a sex offender because the sexual misconduct charge does not require registration.

"The plea was reached after consultation with law enforcement, the victim and the victim's family," Miller stated in an emailed response.

"The commonwealth is pleased with the resolution of the case for the sake of the victim and the victim's family as well as the acceptance of responsibility of the defendant."

According to court records, Underwood committed the crime in June 2011. Taylor County Sheriff's Detective Brian Pickard investigated the case.

Court records state that Pickard took control of a 15-year-old's Facebook account after she reported to officers that Underwood had asked her for sex.

Posing as the 15-year-old girl, Pickard continued a conversation with Underwood for several days.

Using the Facebook "chat" feature, according to records, Underwood wrote that he knew having sex with a 15-year-old girl was illegal and that he could get into trouble for doing so.

However, records state, Underwood set a date to meet the girl and went to a home that deputies were monitoring.

He was arrested as he entered.

If convicted by a jury, Underwood could have been sentenced to as much as 25 years in prison.

Plea reached in rape, sex abuse case

Five-year prison sentence recommended

reporter@cknj.com

A Campbellsville man has pleaded guilty to having sex with a minor.

Brian K. Allen, 31, of 368 Slate Creek Road, was indicted in February 2011 by a Taylor County grand jury and charged with first-degree sexual abuse and six counts of third-degree rape.

Allen appeared before Taylor Circuit Court Judge Allan Bertram on July 9 and pleaded guilty to third-degree rape. The sex abuse and remaining third-degree rape charges were dismissed.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Shelly Miller, the prosecutor in the case, has recommended that Allen serve five years in prison, register as a sex offender and attend sexual offender treatment.

"The plea was reached in consultation with the victim and her family," Miller said. "The Commonwealth believes it was an appropriate resolution."

According to court records, Allen allegedly subjected a 15-year-old girl to sexual contact on Jan. 1, 2011, in Taylor County.

Taylor County Sheriff Allen Newton said last year that the alleged victim's parents reported the allegations. Allen allegedly fondled the girl, who Newton said is a friend of Allen's family.

Taylor County Sheriff's Detective Brian Pickard said last year that the girl later told officers that she had sex with Allen. If convicted by a jury, Allen could have been sentenced to as much as 35 years in prison.

Formal sentencing is Sept. 7.

CLARENCE C. DUNKELBARGER, 81

Clarence Clinton Dunkelbarger, 81, of Campbellsville, died at 10 a.m. on Monday, June 25, 2012, in Campbellsville.

Son of the late Clarence Fisher Dunkelbarger and Ethel Jackson Dunkelbarger, he was born in Hunter, Mo., on June 14, 1931.

He was a retired banking and financial services administrator. Before his retirement at age 72, he lived in Minnesota, Idaho, Alaska and California.

He moved to Spurlington, Ky., in 2006, where he spent his final years lovingly cultivating a tree farm. A humble man, he never stopped learning over his lifetime and pursued a variety of interests. He loved animals and cared about others less fortunate.

He made an impact on all who knew him. He served his country in the United States Air Force and was a veteran of the Korean Conflict.

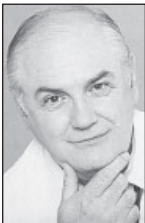

He was married to Violet Jessie Larmour on Oct. 4, 1958. She preceded him in death June 3, 2003.

Survivors include two daughters and sons-in-law, Terri and Bill Foechterle of Wasilla, Alaska, and Randi and Mike Bennett of Anchorage, Alaska; two granddaughters, Katherine Perrier of Anchorage and Amanda Makar of Craig, Alaska; and many other relatives and friends.

He will be greatly missed.

Cremation was chosen. A private memorial was Tuesday, July 3. His ashes were scattered on his beloved farm and a tree was planted in his honor.

Parrott & Ramsey Funeral Home in Campbellsville was in charge of arrangements.

Notice to Taylor County Taxpayers

Mark Carney, Taylor County Clerk, pursuant to KRS 424.330, announces that a list of the 2011 Delinquent Real Property Tax Bills (Certificates of Delinquency) will be published in the Central Kentucky News Journal on Thursday July 26, 2012. To avoid having your name or certificate of delinquency listed in the paper payment must be received by 12:00 noon Tuesday July 24th. Any delinquent tax bills that have not been paid will be offered for sale on Wednesday August 29th at 9:30 a.m. at the Taylor County Courthouse. The list of Certificates of Delinquency is also available for public inspection during the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 12:00 Noon on Saturday at the County Clerks office located in the courthouse at 203 North Court Street. This list may also be viewed on the Taylor County Clerk web site by going to www.tcclerk.com and clicking on the delinquent tax tab. The tax sale will allow third party companies or other individuals the opportunity to purchase any delinquent tax bills that have not been paid by August 29th. If you are a taxpayer who has a delinquent bill you should try your best to pay that bill before the August 29th sale date to avoid additional fees you will have to pay to anyone who may purchase your bill before they would release the tax lien that they would have on your property. Anyone wishing to pay their delinquent tax bill before the sale date should come by the County Clerk's office to make payment. Any individual or company interested in purchasing more than three delinquent tax bills during the delinquent tax sale must register with the Department of Revenue in Frankfort and must also register with the County Clerk's office by the close of business on Monday August 20, 2012. A Registration Form must be obtained from the clerk's office and filled out and turned back in along with the $250.00 non-refundable Registration Fee before the close of business on August 20th. If you wish to purchase three certificates of delinquencies or less then you do not have to register with the Department of Revenue, but you will need to register with the County Clerk's office. The registration fee for individuals wishing to purchase three bills or less will be $5.00 for each bill you wish to purchase. If you are a company that has purchased prior year bills, then you will have the opportunity to purchase any 2011 delinquent bill that is for the same property as the delinquent bill you are already holding. If you wish to claim the 2011 delinquencies based on your holding a prior year claim a list of these bills will have to be turned in to the clerk's office by Monday August 13th. You can obtain a form to list the 2011 bills you may have a claim on from the clerk's office. If different companies have purchased two prior year bills on the same property, then the company with the most recent bill will have first priority. The sale of all other bills not having a prior year claim will be conducted in a manner similar to a professional sports draft in accordance with the provisions of House Bill 262 enacted by the 2009 General Assembly. If you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact the County Clerk's office at 270-465-6677.

‘What’s Cooking, Neighbor?’ star honored

MATTHEW SCHMUCK
Campbellsville University

A Campbellsville man has been honored for what he cooked up at Campbellsville University.

Ed McGuire has been a stalwart founder and supporter of CU’s “What’s Cooking, Neighbor?” television production from its beginning in the late 1980s.

Episodes of “What’s Cooking, Neighbor?” can still be found periodically on Comcast Cable Channel 22 with McGuire cooking up recipes and teaching viewers to do the same. McGuire has been ill lately and his show isn’t in production at the moment.

McGuire recently shot two shows, which have already hit the airwaves.

Campbellsville University’s Department of Mass Communication recently honored McGuire with a CU Distinguished Service Award.

“It’s an honor to receive this recognition,” McGuire said. “It’s just part of the investment in the school, with time and a little bit of money here and there.

“But the big thing is, it’s an investment and opportunity for students. They have a chance to be hands on and grow. In other words, they can’t break into the industry without experience.”

Experience is an area McGuire is more than familiar with, being honored for nearly 30 years of service at WLCU.

McGuire graduated from Campbellsville University in 1961 and was instructional assistant for the Taylor County School System before putting in 25 years of work at Kentucky Educational Television, from which he retired in 1999.

After his retirement from KET, he accepted an introductory level broadcasting professor position at CU, which led to his position at WLCU.

Through his near 30 years of service at WLCU, McGuire said his most memorable moment is hard to pinpoint. Nonetheless, he said, he remembers when his tie fell over his cooking apron and somehow made its way into a frying skillet and caught fire, all while on camera.

“That was an interesting episode to say the least.”

Cox graduates from pharmacy school

Has begun practice residency

Amory Cox of Campbellsville recently graduated with honors from the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy in Lexington.

During the ceremony, she was awarded the American Pharmacist Association-Academy of Student Pharmacists Professionalism award, the Allison Ratcliff Scholarship award for excellence in pediatric pharmacotherapy and the Outstanding Graduating Woman award, which was selected by the Class of 2012.

During her time at UK, Cox was the president of American Pharmacist Association-Academy of Student Pharmacists, an executive committee member of the Kentucky Alliance of Pharmacy Students, a member of the Phi Lambda Sigma Leadership Society and served on the Board of Directors for the Kentucky Pharmacists Association.

She wrote two grant proposals and was one of 10 chapters awarded $2,000 in 2010 and $10,000 in 2011 through Project CHANCE, an American Pharmacist Association organization that promotes delivery of comprehensive pharmacy services to indigent patients with a charitable entity.

Cox’s proposal created the HIV-Adherence Buddies and Counselors program, an HIV medication adherence/pill box fill program partnering students with HIV patients at the Bluegrass Care Clinic in Lexington. Pharmacists there provide clinical services for underprivileged patients with HIV and AIDS in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

In the second year of the grant program, the effort grew and joined Moveable Fest of Lexington to deliver meals to homebound patients as well as in-person counseling provided by UK College of Pharmacy students. During her final year, Cox served on the American Pharmacist Association national “Student Pharmacist” magazine editorial advisory board.

Before graduation, Cox received the Roche Pharmacy Communication award for excellence in patient counseling, placed first runner-up in the American Pharmacist Association Patient Counseling Competition and received the Rho Chi Pharmacy Service Award for her efforts to advance the profession of pharmacy.

On July 2, Cox began her pharmacy practice residency at Vanderbilt University Hospital in Nashville, Tenn.

She hopes to complete a second year specialty residency in pediatrics and pursue a clinical/faculty position at an academic medical center. Cox, the daughter of Dr. Ben and Regina Cox of Campbellsville, graduated from Taylor County High School in 2005.

Adkins staying with CU

Men's hoop coach had chance to return to alma mater
CHRIS MEGGINSON
CU sports information

Keith Adkins, a fixture in Paintsville High School's athletics history, has turned down an offer to coach his alma mater and will remain as head coach of the Campbellsville University men's basketball team, CU Athletics Director Rusty Hollingsworth announced Wednesday morning.

With the decision, Campbellsville University also retains Adkins' wife, Vanessa, who is a three-time Mid-South Conference Cheerleading Coach of the Year, whom has led CU to four MSC titles in six years.

"I am pleased to announce that Keith and Vanessa have decided to stay in Campbellsville and continue to build on the success of their respective programs," Hollingsworth said. "I know this was a very tough and emotional decision for them and their family. They love Campbellsville University, but the chance to return home and coach at Keith's alma mater was very enticing to them."

"Campbellsville University won big today by keeping these two!" Adkins is considered one of the top 5 boys' basketball players to ever wear a Paintsville Tiger uniform. A three-sport star (basketball, baseball, golf) for the Tigers in the mid-to-late 1980s, he was named the Kentucky Male Athlete of the Year in 1988.

"I'd like to thank Paintsville High School and superintendent Coy Samons for extending me an opportunity to be their boys' basketball coach. It was a humbling offer, and one that was definitely attractive, mostly because it was home for me. It's where I played, where my father coached for 35 years and to be perfectly honest, it was intriguing to say the least," Adkins said. "I don't think at this point in my career, I would or would have considered any high school position other than Paintsville High School. It being a special place to me is the only reason it earned consideration."

From 1985 to 1988, Adkins helped lead Paintsville to three state tournament appearances, including a Final Four his junior season in 1987. During the 1987-88 season, the 3-point line was implemented in basketball and Adkins took advantage of it, draining 48 percent of his 258 shots beyond the arc. He led the state in scoring with an average of 32 points per game, and set school records for most points in a game (53) and in a half (30) against Pikeville High. Following the season, he was named a First Team All-State selection and was a member of the Kentucky All-Star Team.

His father, the late Charlie Adkins, was a legendary baseball coach at Paintsville, winning 805 games in 33 seasons as head coach before his retirement in 2005. The elder Adkins led the Paintsville baseball program to the state championship game in 1989 before winning it all in 1990. The Paintsville baseball field is named in his honor. He passed away from cancer in 2010.

"Losing Dad two years ago was difficult. I know he poured his heart and soul into Paintsville High School for 35 years, and it was humbling to even be offered an opportunity to coach at the same place he was so excellent as a coach," Adkins said. "After the past two years, it really hits home how important family is, and the opportunity to have a chance to spend more time with them would

Goodin shines on summer hoop circuit

Quentin Goodin has yet to play a second as a high school freshman.

However, the national media has already taken notice of the Taylor County Cardinal, who averaged 11.1 points (hitting 30 three-pointers and 72.5 percent from the charity stripe) as a starting guard for TCHS as an eighth grader, has completed most of his summer tour on the hardwood.

Goodin attended the invitation-only John Lucas International in Houston where he was ranked 17th out of 120 players from this country and internationally.

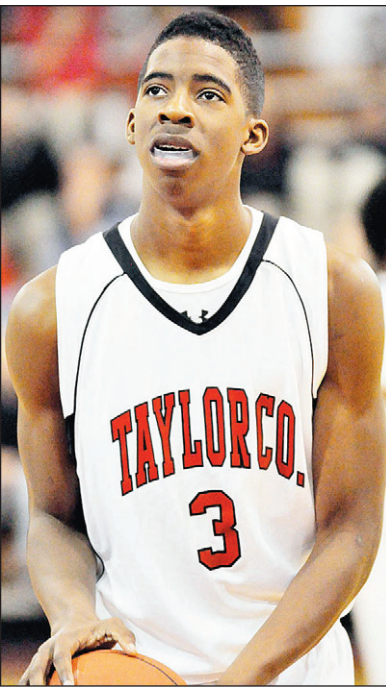

Then it was on to the Fab Frosh All-American Camp in Suwanee, Ga. where he was rated 26th, 28th and 30th by three different scouting services and the sixth overall shooting guard. This camp consisted of the top 120 players in the United States.

Goodin then was at the Hoop-Scoop All-Camp in Louisville where he was chosen the 12th best player out of 120 players nationwide.

The 6-2 Goodin heads to Orlando Friday through next Thursday for the 14-and-under AAU National Tournament. He'll finish up his summer at the Purdue Elite Camp in August and may go to the John Lucas Midwest Camp in Louisville in October.

Evan Daniels the national recruiting analyst for Scout.com says that the Boilermakers already like Goodin.

"Quentin Goodin is receiving preliminary interest from Purdue, UAB and Eastern Kentucky," Future 150 reporter Tyler Mounce says, "Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Purdue, UAB, and Dayton are some of the early suitors vying for this young point guard's talent at this time."

Quentin Goodin averaged 11 points per game for the 16-14 Taylor County High School Cardinals last winter.

Adkins staying with CU

have been nice.”
The opportunity to move, and ultimate decision to stay, weighed heavily on family, Adkins said. It would have placed Adkins in the same community with his entire family and within an hour of Vanessa’s family in Greenup County – creating opportunities for their four children to spend more time with their grandparents.
“This has been one of the most exhausting decisions that Vanessa and I have ever had to make together. But ironically, it’s one of the easiest decisions I’ve ever had to make. After a long discussion with Rusty Hollingsworth, a long conversation with Dr. (Michael V.) Carter and a lot of long conversations with people from here, it was easy to see where we needed to be as a family,” Adkins said. “Paintsville will always be my hometown and where I’m from, but the bottom line is Campbellsville is the only home that we as a family have ever known. It was an easy decision to make staying here and continuing what we started.”
“I want to thank Rusty and Dr. Carter for making Vanessa and I feel wanted and needed, and I want to thank them for the roles that they play in my entire family’s lives. This is a special place. I’ve been here for 15 years, and right now, when it comes down to it, I can’t see myself anywhere else.”
Keith Adkins joined the Campbellsville University men’s basketball staff in 1997 as an assistant coach. This fall, he will enter his 13th season as head coach with a program-best win percentage of .594. He is currently on the NAIA Top 25 active coaches’ wins list with a 234-160 record, including six 20-win seasons and six NAIA Tournament appearances. He led the Tigers to their first-ever Mid-South Conference Tournament championship in 2006 and the program’s first MSC regular-season title in 2010.
Campbellsville University’s men’s basketball team opens its season on Monday, Oct. 29 with an exhibition game at Western Kentucky University.

Family did win out in Adkins’ decision to stay

Family was the big winner as Keith Adkins decided to remain as Campbellsville University’s men’s head basketball coach.
“If it is possible to have a hard decision and an easy decision, this was it,” Adkins said by phone late Tuesday night.
“While it would have been home for me and closer for Vanessa, this is the only home ‘our’ family has ever known.”
“I guarantee they would have had a harder time finding a cheerleading coach than a basketball coach,” Adkins laughed.
“But, I do feel right now that every program on campus is at its height.”

So Many Windows

A beautiful church is not just another building; it stands as a testimony to God. When you enter in you find peace and refuge. On a day of worship you find uplifting prayer and magnificent music, a gathering of fellow worshippers sharing the power of God's Word together. In days of harsh reality, God is the ideal that gives comfort and meaning to our souls and His house is the sanctuary where we find strength for our daily climb through life. Make the climb that will make the difference as you climb the steps to your chosen house of worship every week.

competed for the Miss Kentucky crown. The past two times, she received the second runner-up title. "I guess I got the second runner-up curse," she said, with a laugh. Bland said she is pleased with her performance at the pageant, and was very honored to have come home with a talent award. "That means more to me than anything," she said. Bland says she owes her credit for her talent to her piano teacher, Suellen Shaw. Bland says Shaw sometimes believes in her more than she believes in herself. "I love what the Miss America system stands for. There are four points the pageant stands for, style, service, scholarship and success," she said. Bland said she loved having the opportunity to promote her platform and represent Campbellsville. She said the Miss Kentucky pageant is very stressful, from practicing a talent and mock interviews to getting in the best physical shape as possible. All participants have to win a preliminary pageant to be able to compete, she said, and she has been working toward the state pageant since being named Miss Bowling Green. At this point, Bland says she isn't sure whether she will compete for the Miss Kentucky crown again. Contestants can compete in the pageant until they are 24. "I've had a great experience," she said. "But it is a lot of work. You have to make a lot of sacrifices." And with those sacrifices have come a stronger self-confidence, interview skills and an ability to speak in front of a large crowd. "I've learned just what hard work and determination is," she said. Bland received a bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in May. She was a broadcast journalism major. She said she hopes to one day become a news anchor or sports reporter. For now, Bland has returned home to Campbellsville to spend the summer with her family and friends. At Miss Kentucky, she said, she lived in a home with 30 other girls, including Hash, who by luck of the draw was her suite mate. "It really is a great bonding experience," she said. Bland said it was great having Hash experience the pageant with her. She said she and Hash were the only two contestants from the same hometown. Bland said she and Hash received lots of support from Campbellsville residents. "It just gives me cold chills to think about how much support I've gotten from the community," she said. Campbellsville Mayor Tony Young helped assemble a panel to help Bland prepare for her interviews and was on hand at the pageant for support. Hash said she had a lot of fun competing. "It was a lot of hard work," she said. "It was a very good experience." Hash attends Elizabethtown Community & Technical College and is a dental hygiene major. She said she will take some time off to enjoy the summer before deciding what she will do next. Hash said she hasn't decided yet if she will work to compete in the Miss Kentucky pageant again. "It's kind of always been a dream of mine to compete at Miss Kentucky, to be on the Miss Kentucky stage." Hash said it was nice to compete in the pageant with Bland, who could answer any questions she had. "She was nice and supportive," she said. Hash said she made several friends when competing. "A lot have said we might meet up again, outside of the pageant."

Summer: School helps students get ahead

start toward college, but is also useful in other ways. "Dual credit students tend to be high achievers and get done with their programs sooner," he said. "The dual credit program is also a great recruiting tool for the school. Students feel they've already seen what to expect from our classes and it makes the transition easier for them." Necessary said that the costs of the program are lower than at the university because there are less investments made. "We don't have to have space to teach in because the high school already provides that, much of the resources we would have to provide are instead provided by the high school, we just have to provide the teacher," he said. Dana Rogers, a guidance counselor at Taylor County High School, says the program is highly recommended to anyone who wishes to attempt it.

"I encourage students to take the opportunity because it's a good rate and it eases them into the college regimen, which is different from high school." Rogers said that she pushes students to take courses not eligible for dual credit during the school year, but there is often another aspect of the program students overlook before starting. "The time it takes is more than they often realize," Rogers said. "The program does promote learning time management and getting used to a routine, which I think is good for them. I highly recommend this program to all interested students." One of the students who benefited from the program is Brittney Gaddis, a recent Taylor County High School graduate. Gaddis graduated with 20 credit hours in college courses, which is more than a full semester's worth.

"I'm self motivated and wanted to get classes done sooner and cheaper," Gaddis said. "I want to travel, maybe study abroad. I'll be studying pharmacy, which is four extra years I'll have to go to school, so cutting back on some of the schooling I'll have to do and getting it done cheaper helps." Gaddis said that the traditional stereotype of summer school holds some students back from taking advantage of the program. "Yeah, lots of kids think it's not cool, but they don't know the opportunities they have available," she said. "Courses that I had to spend a year taking like arts and humanities or computer applications, they can finish in just a day or so through summer school." For more information on dual-credit classes, contact the local school districts or speak with a guidance counselor.

Bands: Local high schools have band camp

"I'm excited." Shelton said the CHS band is 25 members strong this year, which is an increase of seven members when compared to last year. "It's getting bigger every year," he said. Shelton said each fifth-grade student in the Campbellsville Independent School District participates in band through a rotation program, which has helped boost the number of students participating through middle and high school. "Every kid has the opportunity to play," he said. "As far as I know, we're the only school in the state to do that." This will be Shelton's fourth marching season at CHS. The band was reformed after a hiatus when Shelton came to CHS. The band doesn't have a field commander this year, Shelton said, because its small size allows members to follow each other without one. This week, band members are working on fundamental marching and learning their music. Shelton said the band room has been open one day each week throughout the summer for those wanting to get a jump start. "It's a matter of getting it polished," he said. This year's props, Shelton said, will include a giant purple tarp and new uniforms that are gray and purple. Shelton said the band is working on its website, which will be launched soon. "There's still some people in the community that don't know we exist." CHS will compete in Elizabethtown on Saturday, Sept. 8, LaRue County on Sept. 29 and Hopkinsville on Oct. 13. Regional competition is Oct. 20 and semifinals and finals are set for Oct. 27. Last year, the CHS band received first place awards at each of its competitions but didn't advance to semifinals. "I'm OK with that," Shelton said. "Because it gives us something to drive for." Shelton said the band hasn't performed at state semifinal competition since the 2005-2006 school year. The band scored 11th at regional competition last year. "It would be nice to get back to that point," he said. Taylor County High School Bishop said this year's TCHS show is entitled "The Ties That Bind." "It is all based on how everything is tied together," he said. "We are using the musical and visual aspects of our activity to accomplish this." The band will use the colors orange and purple to represent the visual ties and the melodies of the band's music will be tied together throughout the show. The repertoire is a mixture of classical, pop and movie soundtracks. Bishop said the first piece of music is a 20th century orchestral symphony by Samuel Barber, who is known for "Adagio for Strings" which was featured in the war movie "Platoon." The second song is "The Scientist" made famous by Coldplay. The last song is music from the movie "August Rush." Bishop said there are 70 members in the TCHS band this year, which is up a few members when compared to last year. "This is the largest the marching band has ever been to my knowledge," Bishop said. Chelsea Mehegan, a junior flute player, is this year's field commander. At band camp this week, Bishop said, students have been learning the basics of marching as well as learning and memorizing their music and show moves. "We also work on physical conditioning by running, stretching, doing yoga and ballet exercises," Bishop said. The TCHS band will perform for parents and the community next Thursday at 7 p.m. Bishop said his band's goal is to get better each performance and have a memorable experience that the students will carry with them throughout their lives. "The students are really good about not focusing on other groups but rather focusing on making their show better," Bishop said. "We also want to make sure students are learning life lessons as well as how to be better musicians and performers." "So far this year is shaping up to be another great year for the band." Bishop said he appreciates the financial and emotional support the band receives from the community, parents and teachers. "We truly have some of the greatest students in this area in our group and these kids are definitely worth their time and support." Last year, the TCHS band came in sixth place at state semifinal competition but did not advance to finals competition.
